The Siegelklarheit labyrinth: The board game

The Siegelklarheit labyrinth is a game for 2-4 players. The aim is to conquer the labyrinth with its various questions of sustainable consumption, credibility, social compatibility and environmental friendliness as fast as possible.

By the way: The questions are available both for printing and directly online. They are categorized into "Easy" and "Difficult". So, there is something for everyone!

You will need:

- 1 printed board game
- Pawns for 2-4 players
- 1 dice
- Crossing points or a felt-tip pen
- The questionnaire on the 4 topics

1. The players alternately place crossing points on the dotted circle lines. These are the places to change from one ring to the next. Alternatively, the crossing points can also be marked with a pen. Each of the outer four rings receives 4 transitions, the inner four rings 2 each.
2. The youngest player starts the round. He/ she rolls the dice and places the pawn in the direction of play. Afterwards, it is the next player's turn.
3. Alternately, the players roll the dice and place their pawn in the direction of movement (clockwise).
4. If a crossing point is reached or crossed, the player stops there. A question of the current ring color must be answered.
5. If the answer is correct, the player may move to the next inner ring. If the answer is false, the player stays on their ring. Afterwards, it is the next player's turn.
6. The player who reaches the innermost ring (logo of Siegelklarheit) first, wins the game.
